Since switching to PocketSuite, I don't panic about getting paid, collecting contracts, or where I am going to store important details like vaccination records for boarding dogs. No more searching through my emails and jotting down client notes while taking consults on the go. Everything is so streamlined, I set it up once, and now the software just does what it does. Adding new services is a breeze, and automatically onboarded clients means I don't need to track down their email, save their phone number or even guess at how to spell their name. It has been a game changer for running a high volume caseload so I can put my attention where it needs to be: training dogs!
